Chelsea Group Heads to Maui Over the Weekend to Support MHLA's Excellence in Education Golf Tournament

By Andy Beth Miller

Wailea, Maui — On Friday, August 18, 2017, Maui Hotel and Lodging Association hosted its 21st Annual Excellence in Education Golf Tournament at the Wailea Blue Golf Course and Manoli's Pizza Company, successfully raising $35,000 for Maui students. The sister organization of HLTA, MHLA mirrors its Gathering Isle twin organization in regularly hosting charity events in support of the surrounding community.

The tournament—which raises funds specifically for scholarships which are distributed to Maui County high school students, UH Maui College Students and eligible MHLA members and their children—was a resounding success, with spots to play selling out early on. One of the lucky ones to nab a chance to have a go at the green was Chelsea Group Building Scientist Lisa Reddinger, who represented the Building Science firm and its commitment to supporting organizations such as the MHLA and HLTA in these worthy endeavors.

Reddinger rolled up her sleeves and jumped in to help, elbows deep, literally—in raffle tickets. Sharing of her experience of being in charge of the sale of the tickets—the exciting grand prize being a three nights stay in Las Vegas, including air fare—Reddinger smiled and recalled the excitement and general feeling of goodwill that she palpably felt throughout the entire event.

"I had a great time representing Chelsea Group, and thoroughly enjoyed having the opportunity to meet and connect with some amazing industry entrepreneurs, who have as well as business acumen, truly generous hearts," Reddinger said. "Hawaii is a small island community, and to be able to go to an event and see how we are really coming together to invest in the future generations and their education, is really encouraging, and makes me proud of the progress I see, and how Chelsea Group is playing its part in forwarding that progress."
